

Transition City Lancaster

Workshop to talk about Community Planning Process

Who gathered together?

Samagita, Steve, Chris, Wendy, Tony, Alison, Nat, Louise and Clodhna

We explored the issues in a workshop format and agreed that:

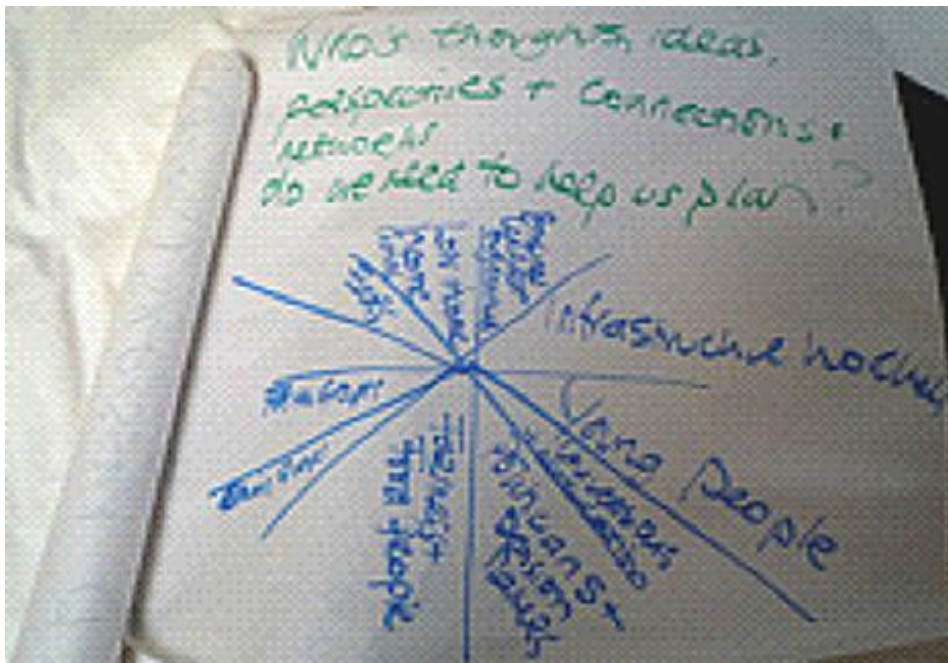

- The community conversation is most important thing - so this is more than just the production of a plan though many plans may emerge from it
- We need to take time to plan and prepare for this well including training in facilitation and hosting skills. Clodhna is doing this with Transition Liverpool and would be happy to do it with TCL too. We will look at what funds might be available for this.
- We need to work with a diverse core planning group and the first step would be to find people to join that
- We will need lots of different kinds of people to participate in the facilitation over a period of time
- We agreed to meet again soon to continue with this planning conversation. Clodhna will convene that.

Exploration of the Principles that might underpin how we do a community planning exercise.

Exploration of whom we might need to involve in the planning.

Exploration of what we might need to help us to do our best.
